Seed Library now available

The Seed Library is "where Wilsonville grows." This collection of seeds is available to all visitors, and is made up of donated seeds, both commercial and saved from participants' gardens.

Come to the library and select up to 10 seed plant varieties from the Seed Library cabinet (located by the Library of Things and puzzles). On The Seed Library envelope write the plant name, variety, and planting notes for each seed type. Place your selected seeds into the envelopes then take to staff for check-out. That's it!

There is no due date on seeds, but we encourage you to donate back to The Seed Library any commercial surplus seeds to the library or saved seeds from your garden.
