

KITTY ADVENTURES

Four ordinary cats lay in a small gray wooden house with large front windows. There was a fluffy orange tabby named Solar, a pitch-black cat named Cosmo, a smoky colored cat named Blackhole, and a white cat with brown and gray patches named Portal.

These kitties all lived with the same life routine every day; eat, sleep, occasionally roll around in the sunlight coming through the window, be lazy, repeat.

One warm evening, the cats went to sleep outside which was out of their routine. Suddenly, they woke up to a loud noise and revolting smell.

"Yuck, why does it stink so bad?" Portal questioned while wrinkling his nose.

The cats turned their heads to see a metal monster pulverize their house to splinters and pollute the air with stinky smog that blew out of a pipe attached to its skull. The monster was shiny yellow, had a large blade in the front, and had chain-like treads where its legs should be.

"What will we do now?" Blackhole asked.

"We fight!" Solar roared as all the cats jumped at the beast. They tried their best to use monster as a scratching post, but didn't make a dent!

Now the metal monster was furious. It called for two other monsters. They all used their large blades to push the house to dust.

The cats were enraged! Noticing a small crack where they could enter inside the metal monster, they jumped in. Then they pulled out a bunch of string things that were attached within. When they jumped out, the metal monster stopped moving.

Then, BOOM! Metal monster parts flew everywhere, and even onto the cats! Soon, the kitties noticed that metal parts had attached to the tips of their tails to form a laser pointer.

"Ahhhhh!" screamed Blackhole while examining his tail. "I'm becoming a mini cyborg!"

"Hey check this out!" announced Portal as he shot a laser out of his tail. Thinking it was a toy Solar chased the laser playfully.

"Ahhhhhh! We're robots!" Blackhole screamed.

"I'm hungry. Maybe the laser has a function to make food appear out of thin air," said Solar while shooting his laser trying to make food appear.

"We'll find your food dish," Portal stated.

"It's destroyed," Solar hissed angrily while standing over the red dust that once was his food dish.

"Maybe there is some food over there," Cosmo said while pointing his laser tail towards a city.

The four cats rushed over. They saw a sign reading "Cybernetic City". Then they noticed the most amazing thing of all: a vending machine full of meat sticks.

"How will we get those treats?" Portal questioned while drooling.

Just then their question was answered. Cosmo blasted the vending machine with his laser tail. Food spilled out like an avalanche.

"WE CAN EAT LIKE KINGS!" Cosmo shouted.

The cats were so busy eating that they didn't notice the large tin can robots with tube arms and claw hands approach. Those sneaky robots used their claw hands to snatch the cats and stuff them into cat carriers within their tin bodies. The cats had eaten so many snacks that they fell into a deep food coma sleep.

When they woke up they were still in the cat carriers, but the carriers were covered up with blankets.

"Hey guys, are you there?" Cosmo asked.

"Yea," Solar's voice announced from the other side of the room. "I'm here. Are you ok?"

"I'm ok, but I don't feel very well from all the snacks. Portal and Blackhole aren't with me. Are they with you?" Cosmo questioned.

"They aren't with me either. Is there a way out of here?" Solar meowed.

"Maybe our laser tails can get us out," Cosmo explained trying to shoot a laser, but then noticing that his laser tail was covered with super glued laser proof foil. The tin robots must have placed it there.

"Hey, I think we're moving!" Como said nervously.

Cosmo was right. The two cats were being carried by another tin robot to a lab marked: "Warning! Radioactive Testing!"

"Must get rid of dangerous tails," the robot said in a monotone voice.

The robot set the carriers down and the blankets were lifted revealing a large room with conveyor belts. The cats were relieved to see Portal and Blackhole next to them. However, they were anxious to see that the conveyor belt had started moving to a contraption that Read: "Radioactive! Don't Walk In!"

"RUNNNNNN!" Cosmo screeched as they were nearing the machine.

The cats tried to run as fast as they could, but they couldn't get out of the carriers. One by one, the conveyor belt moved them into the machine. Then the cats blacked out. Within the machine, their metal cyborg tails disintegrated.

The four cats woke up in a small containment chamber. They noticed that the cat carrier doors were open and they all hurried out.

The second Portal saw Solar he screamed, "SOLAR YOU'RE ON FIRE!!!"

Solar looked down at his once fluffy orange fur and saw flaming fire designs instead of stripes like he used to have. Freaking out, he screamed!
"AGHHHHHHHHH!"

"Solar, calm down." Cosmo meowed while examining the patches on his fur. The patches now represented nebulas, comets, stars, and meteors.

"COSMO YOU'RE OUTERSPACE!!!" Solar shouted while still freaking out.

"I think our fur has changed color and design for some reason. I'm outta this creepy place," said Portal who now had blue portal designs all over his body.

Suddenly, a large blue portal appeared out of thin air in front of him.

"HOLY MEOW!" Portal screamed as another blue portal appeared from behind. He stuck his paw through the portal in front cautiously and it came out the portal behind. The cat imagined another portal, and it appeared to his side. He stuck his paw into that portal and it came out the front portal.

But, then his fun was interrupted when he noticed all of his friends' eyes. What used to be greenish yellow was now a bright sky blue. Portal also noticed that he could see more colors than before and that his vision was ten times better than normal.

"Guys our eyes are blue!" Portal yelled at the other cats.

"WHAT?!" Solar screamed still panicking.

"It's true," Cosmo and Blackhole said at the same time.

"WHAT THE MEOW?!" Solar shrieked as he ignited on fire. Then he shot fireballs out of his paws and used them to fly around.

Cosmo made a nebula out of thin air. The now black cat with space designs slept on it, as he was quite sleepy from all the commotion.

Blackhole's smoky fur swirled with black hole designs. Then, in a split second, he became a black hole, and then turned back into a cat.

"WE HAVE SUPER POWERS!!!" Portal purred loudly. "Let's figure out a way to get out of here using our powers!"

With their new excellent vision, the cats spotted a green button on the ceiling that normally they wouldn't be able to see due to their color blindness. Solar shot fireballs out of his paws and flew up to press the button. Doing so opened up a trap door on the ground and the cats tumbled down.

They fell into a laboratory. A weird human in a white lab coat was pouring blue colored liquid into bottles.

When he saw the cats he muttered, "My plan with the radiation backfired. I got rid of the laser tails, but caused these cats to get superpowers. Now they are too powerful! I must stop them!" He threw the bottle of blue liquid at the cats, but missed. When the bottle smashed on the ground the liquid melted the floor.

"STEER CLEAR OF THE WEIRD MELTY STUFF!!" Solar hissed at the top of his lungs dodging more bottles.

While the human was busy throwing bottles, Cosmo snuck up behind him and trapped him in a nebula.

"MERMPPHHHHH," the human yelled loudly as he reached in his pocket to pull out a contraption with a red button on it. Pressing the button caused an alarm to go off throughout the entire building. Then five tin robots rushed into the room.

"Looks like we have some minions to run through on our way out of here!" Solar yelled as he ran past a robot.

The four cats bolted through the bots and to the front door. Then Portal teleported the cats to the forest that was near their destroyed home.

"Couldn't you have teleported us here first?" Solar complained to Portal

"The robots probably would have followed us through," Portal meowed back.

"HURRELL! Remind me to never step into one of those again. It made my stomach turn," Blackhole grumbled as he hacked a hairball.

Then Solar produced another hairball followed by Cosmo.

After they felt better, they thought of their future. The once ordinary sleepy cats weren't so ordinary anymore. They knew they were going to have many more kitty adventures.