

Moving

Once upon a time, there was a little covered wagon and 3 girls. Their names were Zeze, Elsa, and Awn. They were going to move to Oregon. They were sad to leave so they asked their grownups if they had to and the grownups said yes because there were too many people. They packed up all their stuff and all their food in their covered wagon. The trip was so long and one time a wolf came and they had to fight it off. When they got to Oregon, they could not find a house. So they had to build a house out of sticks. When they did that they got all safe and dry. But the house made of sticks was not very good so some wolves tried to attack them but their daddy took out his gun and the wolves saw that he might shoot them so they ran away. The next day they unpacked all their stuff and put it in their house and Zeze, Elsa, and Awn lived happily ever after.

The End.
